

Official

AMENDMENT TO THE ABSTRACT

7/10/03

The abstract has been amended as follows:

The present invention provides a remotely accessible and maintained web-based database.

In an embodiment, the database is automatically populated with existing customer data records.

An account generator creates access numbers for the data records. The access numbers are distributed to the customer by a broadcast system to enable the customer to access the data records.